

Grinnell College

Rosenfield Program in Public Affairs,
International Relations, and Human Rights

2021 Rosenfield Program Funded Internships

Annie Estes '22 interned with The Stranger's Guide, which publishes yearly print guides profiling three different countries around the world and one domestic state. Annie did research, fact-checking, and interviews to obtain information about Tehran and California, both being featured this year.

Olivia Jensen '22 spent in Phoenix at the Law Office of Jillian Kong-Sivert, which specializes in immigration practice. Olivia worked directly with immigrants and hopes to further her understanding of the legal processes of immigration.

Sohom Pal '22 was in New York City this summer interning at AICON Gallery, which specializes in modern and contemporary non-Western art with a special focus on South Asia.

Writam Pal '23 was in his home country of India interning at Independent Personnel working as an assistant to an independent lawyer in the High Court of Calcutta.

With plans to attend law school in the future, Claire Pollard '22 gained experience in research as she serves as an intern at the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission-Chicago District. The EEOC is the US agency that administers, interprets, and enforces laws prohibiting employment discrimination.

Krissy Redding '23 gained a comprehensive understanding of the functions at the University of Chicago Press during her internship this summer.

Ryland Rich '22 spent part of her summer in London as she interns with the School for Ethics and Global Leadership. Ryland developed curriculum for case studies, be involved with the residence life programming as she assists with this summer program for high school juniors.

The Department of Virology at Tohoku University in Japan hosted Sakura Ishizaki '23 as an intern. Sakura will mainly research COVID-19 infection rates, responses, and prevention methods.

Reynaldo Wilson '22 worked with communities to fight for justice and liberation through litigation and advocacy by way of his internship at The Center for Constitutional Rights, New York City. The CCR is committed to the creative use of law as a positive force for social change by combining cutting-edge litigation, advocacy, and strategic communications in work on a broad range of civil and human rights issues