2020 Rosenfield Program Internships

Sarah Beisner '22 interned with the Center for Children's Law and Policy and is eager to make a difference in the juvenile justice system. She helped with research on diversion practices to prevent youth entry into the system as well as working on youth outreach and engagement.

Sophia Bern '21 had the opportunity to observe court hearings and depositions as well as assist with research during her internship with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in Chicago. The EEOC is responsible for the interpretation and enforcement of employment anti-discrimination statutes dealing with disability, age, sex, religion, and race.

Paul Hill '23 utilized his passion for photography and activism during his internship with Firelight Media in New York.

Sakura Ishizaki '23 worked on a project that aims to reduce the death rate of pregnant women in Bangladesh through promotion of a portable ultrasonic echo device. Her internship with the Alliance Forum Foundation, an organization that works to change the world through the deployment of technology to assist developing countries, was helpful in shaping plans for her career.

Lana Katai '21 researched court cases in her work as an intern with the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's Chicago District Office. The EEOC deals with anti-discrimination law and engages in litigation against employers for violations of Title VII, ADEA, and other laws.

Carolina Klauck Novaes '23 worked with a team of public policy analysts with the office of Lieutenant Colonel Zucco, a state representative in the state of Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil.

Danielle Oberlander '22 interned at Mahaffey Law Group in Montezuma, Iowa, which focuses on family cases regarding adoption, divorce, child custody, and other family matters.

Umang Kamra '22 worked on analyzing government policy on social welfare issues, at the Policy and Development Advisory Group in Ranchi, India.

Yining (Millie) Yang '23 worked with Professor Mary Brinton in the sociology department at Harvard University as a research assistant. Millie examined institutional change in Japan and China and its effect on women's employment in China; and the gender inequality in the labor market in China.

Soren (Hudson) Clulow '23 interned with the Center for Constitutional Rights assisting with legal strategies for rights of underrepresented individuals, environmental regulation, Palestinian peace, immigration battles, and other socio-political causes.
